Happy Thanksgiving!

On The Road Again by Evan Kramer

Valerie and I took some time off and attended the yearly Comdex computer show in Las Vegas. The cold weather in Port Orford traveled south and also arrived for the show. The day we left for Los Angeles it snowed in Las Vegas. Temperatures in Los Angeles set new record lows for that day on the calendar.

The estimated attendance at the convention was 190,000. They were spread over the Hilton Hotel convention facilities, Las Vegas convention center and the Sands Hotel convention center. The Sands doubled the size of their convention hall by turning the underground parking lot into another level of exhibitors booths. The things that impressed me the most were the number of men and women wearing business suits, the variety of lap top computers on exhibit, the emphasis on Internet servers, the explosion of CD-ROMs for sale, networks and the building hysteria over Microsoft's Window's 95. Valerie will have plenty to say later on the more technical aspects of the show.

Some of the highlights of the show for me were meeting and getting an autographed baseball cap from Jerry Mathers!!! He played "The Beaver" for six years on the Leave It To Beaver show and answered the questions for me of "Where Are They Now." Another celebrity attending the convention promoting one of the computer companies was Dr. Ruth who was right in front of us in line for stuffed baked potatoes. The potato server got more hysterical about serving Dr. Ruth than I did in meeting "The Beaver".

If you haven't visited Las Vegas in several years you won't recognize it. The new 5,000 room MGM hotel is now open at the corner of Las Vegas Blvd. and Tropicana. In keeping with the spirit of the new theme park atmosphere of Las Vegas the MGM has an amusement park in addition to a Wizard of Oz themed animatronic display in one of its casinos. Fremont Street in downtown Las Vegas is now torn up and closed to auto traffic. Rising out of all the construction dust is a pedestrian mall known as the Fremont Street Experience. The Experience can best be described as a 1,500 foot long canopy covering Fremont Street at a height of about 100 feet. The canopy will contain a light and sound show and protect people from the infrequent rains that pelt the area.

Moving south on Las Vegas Blvd. from the original downtown fun zone, construction work has resumed on the Stratosphere Tower at Las Vegas World. According to an employee of the hotel the goal of the owners of the Stratosphere Tower is for it to be the world's tallest building. It already rises over 900 feet and has been the object of several court actions trying to block its ascent to the title of world's tallest building. Speaking of tallest structures the new Buffalo Bill's Hotel and Casino at Stateline has built the world's tallest roller coaster. It's called the Desperado and yes I bought a ticket and gave it a go. I knew they meant business with this coaster when they made me give them my glasses while we waited for the coaster cars to depart. Women had to surrender their purses and everyone had to hand over any packages they had with them. I had just eaten several Oreo cookies, not knowing the Desperado was waiting for me in the desert. I didn't lose my cookies on this coaster but came close. It's definitely worth trying if you're a coaster fan as I am.

The Dunes Hotel is now a fenced in empty lot, one of the few left on Las Vegas Blvd. from the airport to downtown. Its two largest structures were dynamited in front of large crowds and shown on television to countless millions. No doubt by next year there will be a new pleasure dome at its place.

Thanks For Giving

Our country celebrates Thanksgiving Day on Thursday. Families are reunited for this day which for many is a long 4 or 5 day reunion. One family that is having a difficult time of it but is holding up is the O'Hearn family. Daughter Cindy Lawson told me Tim is in Eugene at Sacred Heart Hospital. Murleen is also there and, knowing her, being very helpful. The

Voters Say Yes for Library by Tobe Porter, Library Director

It's probably a good thing that I'm recovering from a bout with the flu; otherwise I might make a spectacle of myself by shouting "Thank You" from the library roof top.

We are very happy at the vote of confidence the people in the library district displayed with a resounding 61% yes vote on the new tax base. The Board of Directors and the Staff are committed to bringing to fruition the issues on which we campaigned. We will continue the hours and service you now enjoy. We will expand the programs and services. We will update and expand our reference section. We will begin our library expansion project.

There are many individuals to thank and first to mind come Diana and Ronni Michaelson who gave many long hours to the effort. They were involved in everything from early budget consultations to computer work to calling on voters. A giant kudo to Library Assistant Sheryl Alexander for her level headed advice, hard work and certain belief in what we do. A string of thanks to Christina Alexander, Jon Porter, Caroly Malley, Frank Lee, Yvonne and Mike Ousley, Pat and Jeff Kerker and Carol Waxham and John Blackwell for making, placing, and displaying signs and stuffing envelopes.

A hotel manager became quite upset at the participants of a chess convention who stood around the lobby bragging about their games and getting in the way of other guests. He finally ordered them back to their rooms. He said to the bellhop, "If there's one thing that really makes me mad, it's chess nuts boasting in an open foyer!"

Big thanks go to the "walkers" Rima Bruce, Loretta Hillman, Ronni Michaelson, Gunter Vogel, Christo Schwartz and Sheryl Alexander and to the "phoners" Deanna McDermott, Jim Tronson, Carol Malley, Anne Lee and Ardith Kane. Special thanks to Library Assistant Arlene Lawton who volunteered to cover the library so the rest of us could "get out the vote." And to our secret admirer who donated funds to cover all election costs we say "Thank you Mrs. Kane."

However, the lion's share of the much deserved thanks goes to the people in the library district. You will see that your vote does count because you can count on us to provide our community with a library that deserves such a big YES. Thank you.

For additional information about the library, call Tobe Porter at the library at 348-2278.

You're never in worse company than when you're beside yourself with rage.

There are two things you need not be angry at: Those things which you can change, and those which you cannot.

Suspicious Circumstances

The Curry County Sheriff's Office is investigating two incidents that occurred on Nov. 8th & 9th in Port Orford, involving two children ages 10 & 11. Both of the children were reported to have been walking along Highway 101 near 19th & 20th Streets respectively when they were approached by a male subject and offered money to get into his vehicle.

The children have described the vehicle as a mid sized dark blue car with white stripes on the side.

The driver of the vehicle has been described as being very tall, heavy set, with short dark hair, a thin mustache and was wearing a black leather jacket and Levi Jeans with holes in the knees.

One of the children also said that this subject was in Sentry Market on Tuesday afternoon at about 4:30 pm.

Anybody that may have any information about a person or vehicle matching this description please contact the Curry County Sheriff's Office.

Elk/Sixes Watershed Council Helps Restore Coho Habitat

"About half a mile of Bagley Creek is now available to Elk River's wild coho," according to Gary Susac, ODFW fish biologist. "We're glad to finish the first phase before winter." More of the tributary is slated for restoration. "Returning Bagley Creek to its natural stream bed makes it accessible to coho and provides fingerlings with a safe place to go during high river conditions," Susac says.

At the Western States mill site on Elk River, Bagley Creek had been detoured around the mill's fire pond and was impassable to salmon. "Plugging the bypass and rerouting the stream back to where it belongs was just the first step," states Jerry Stoope, watershed council member and local landowner. "It's good to see something getting done for the fish," reports Stoope, interested in seeing Bagley Creek restored. Stoope and Susac assumed leadership of the project, scheduling work days and arranging for materials.

Under ODFW guidance, volunteers built step pools and fish ladders as needed from the mill's fire pond to the mouth of the creek. Along with labor from local residents, Brice Wagner of Elk River Dairy and Joe Marsh from the Marsh Ranch brought in heavy equipment. Donating their time, they cleared stands of gorse and helped place logs.

Fish ladders and log dams were set up to create step pools for salmon to pass from Elk River into the mouth of Bagley Creek and travel up the tributary. "We finished the fish ladders just as the recent storms hit," Susac says, explaining that steel-head fingerlings are using the new Bagley Creek habitat right now to escape heavy mainstem flows.

"A healthy coho run in Elk River adds to our local commercial and sport fishery," reports Carolyn Osborne, chairperson, explaining one reason why the Elk/Sixes Watershed Council selected the project. "The restoration of Bagley Creek is a successful cooperative effort using volunteer time and small grants," Osborne says. According to her "With $2,000 from ODFW and a $500 grant from Friends of Elk River, the first phase of restoration is coming right along."

"There's still lots to do," Jerry Stoope says, inviting volunteers to join the team. The next phase may include replacing a culvert under Elk River Road so salmon can move further up Bagley Creek. Dan Crumley, road master for Curry county, is ready to cooperate. "Fisheries are important in our county and this kind of community project is within the scope of the road department."

The Friends of Elk River have volunteered to plant willows along Bagley Creek's banks to reduce erosion. For permanent canopy, they have offered to reforest the streamside with conifer seedlings. Anyone interested in helping with the restoration of Bagley Creek can contact Carolyn Osborne, Elk/Sixes Watershed Council (332-2555) or Gary Susac, Elk River Fish Hatchery (332-4744).

Lazer Vaudeville Christmas

A Lazer Vaudeville Christmas, sponsored by the city of Coquille, is the most unusual form of holiday family entertainment you'll ever see. Imagine high-tech laser magic and the ancient arts of vaudeville combining to create a holiday event filled with black-light juggling, zany comedy, acrobatics and audience participation. Special guest Santa Clause will don fluorescent colors, fly down chimneys, magically float presents, fill stockings, and pull Christmas trees out of thin air. This production can be seen at the Coquille Community Building on Saturday, December 10th at 7 pm.

Alfonzo, the seven foot tall fluorescent fire-breathing dragon, will be on hand for his own rendition of "The Night Before Christmas." With some help from Santa's elves, Carter Brown, "America's best juggler," will demonstrate the lost art of hoop rolling. Randy Johnson, resident acrobat and black light illusionist, will keep you amazed with his crazy antics. Cindy Marvell, American's only female juggler to win the International Jugglers' Association Championship, will awe one and all with her unbelievable feats of gravity suspension.

When you come to see A Lazer Vaudeville Christmas, you or someone you know might be brought up on stage to join in the festivities. So come break-dance with Santa, spin neon ropes with magical Jack-in-the-boxes, and experience Christmas magic at its best. This is clean, classy for the entire family, from three to ninety-three.

Tickets for this holiday event are available at Off the Record in Coos Bay, the Country Merchant in Bandon, Bonney Drug in Coquille, or at the door. Admission is $8 for adults, $5 for children, and

To The Editor:

Now, let me see if I have this straight. Six years ago the Port Orford City Council fires Norma House for problems stemming from the handling of the sewer situation. Dean Madison is then hired, basically because he has knowledge with regards to sewer problems as well as grant writing and administrative expertise. When he is hired Mr. Madison makes it known to the city council that the financial portion of the city management is not an area he is particularly comfortable with. Shortly after his employment he begins to request assistance with that area. After a time of asking for help the city council grants permission to hire a person part time to help with the finances. This person continues for one year and then the city council refuses to continue her employment and Mr. Madison is told he is on his own. He, in the meantime, takes a bookkeeping class and continues to request assistance of the council. He is also doing all the city planning, manages to put together a successful sewer package which reaches fruition this last spring and manages all the other affairs of the city. Then not surprisingly, some errors appear in the financial arena and the city council elects to terminate Mr. Madison's employment based on his inability to do the finances. Someone else is then hired who is supposedly knowledgeable and experienced with regard to city finances. Then, the city council decides to hire Norma House to do the city planning and then she is hired to work three days a week doing the finances for the City because the new administrator can't seem to get it all done!!! Maybe I have missed something here but this all seems just a tad bit screwy to me. Could be the city council hasn't a clue? Just wondering!!!!

Letter To The Editor,

Community spirit and trust are what makes a town "Home Town". Never will you see such a demonstration of this as in our town.

The fisherpersons here have it hard with weather, regulations, poor prices, dangerous waters, bills and trying to keep their boats in repair.

They look and sometimes act like a motley crew but never will you find a spirit of one for all and all for one entrenched as in these endangered species.

The cowboys of the sea have the barbed wire choking off their existence, love of the sea, love of community and love of independence. They have a respect for their fellow man and his home range.

So thank you all who went looking for him, who rescued him, who helped him and those who are standing by him, praying for him.

Thank you to the family of Port Orford. A true testimony to all of you in the white hats stained with grease, oil, soil and sweat.

Truly the people in our area are a majority of the minority in our world today.

From the heart of Tim,
family and friends
