History Preserved On The Hill By Evan Kramer

The University of Oregon is currently holding a Historic Preservation Field School in Port Orford. The three two week sessions will wrap up on August 3 but before the students and teachers leave town they're holding a series of talks about what they've done. On Tuesday night the presentation was held on the top of Coast Guard Hill in the life boat station or, as it is also known, the barracks. The talk was led of by Don Peting, a professor from the University of Oregon who is in charge of the field school. He said the University offers an M.A in historic preservation and there are now 25 students in that program.

The three two week sessions focused on Hughes House, Cape Blanco Headlands, and the Port Orford Headlands site which once served as the U.S. Coast Guard Life Saving Service complex. Peting said some of the things the students have done were to put new roof pieces on the Hughes House, do some historically accurate repairs to the house and build new windows for the barracks building which will be installed after the bats migrate.

Peting discussed goals for the former Coast Guard site in a series of three phases called the Port Orford Headlands

Design Project. Phase I includes an interpretive plan to explain what the area is all about. He mentioned people driving up to the life saving station and not understanding the connection with the buildings to the purpose they once served since the ocean is not readily apparent. He also talked about having exhibits in the barracks building, an office for the Point Orford Heritage Society, a lift to make both the basement and first floor of the barracks handicap accessible and using one of the two garages as a boat building shop.

Problems with the road in the park and parking were discussed. One solution would be a new access road that leads behind the garages to a new parking lot where public bathrooms would be located. Some other ideas for the area included rebuilding the practice tower and the lookout tower and restoring what is now used as a parking lot back to what it was originally built for which is a tennis court.

Phase II ideas included boat building demonstrations, improving the trail system in the park, rebuilding the water tower as well as the weather tower and opening up the steps which led from the barracks building down to Nellie's Cove where the life boats were kept.

Phase III was discussed by Dave Pinyerd, student coordinator for the field school. He presented a series of his drawings depicting a life boat saving station interpretive center located on Highway 101 in Port Orford. The drawings of the eye catching building were a hit with those who attended the meeting on Tuesday night. It included a recreation of a boat house to draw people into the building. An idea to reduce the amount of people driving up the hill to the life boat station included using a shuttle bus to take people from the interpretive center to the life saving station.

One important thing that needs to be understood is the three phases of development that were presented on Tuesday night are the student's design ideas for the area. It is now up to Oregon State Parks and the people of this community to decide if they want to follow up on them and how they want to go about it. Most of their ideas would restore the area and its buildings to what they used to be like when it was an active Coast Guard facility.

Point Orford Heritage Society President Viola Cuatt concluded the meeting by telling everyone that there would be an open house and tours at the barracks

Internet

by Valerie Jean Kramer

Three new modems were added in Port Orford this week as the Internet continues to grow in popularity.

You can download free Internet Phone software from www.intel.com. I found it easy to install. The audio was a bit hard to follow but I may be able to adjust it to make it better - I only played with it for a few minutes. I have no doubt that this technology will continue to grow rapidly. To use the phone software, your computer needs an audio card, a microphone, and speakers or headphones.

The Curry County (and friends) Email Directory continues to grow. Check it out at www.harborside.com/funzone/email.htm. If you would like to be listed, send an email to funzone@harborside.com.

More and more people are window shopping on-line or using the Internet to plan their vacation. Many businesses are taking advantage of this by setting up web pages that give information about their products and how to contact them or place orders. Some even accept orders placed from their web page or via email.

Businesses that would like to have a web page but don't have a computer need not be left out. Harborside will make your page available to the world for $15/month. There are a number of people and businesses who will be happy to design a page for you. Call Harborside (1-800-680-8855) for referrals or see Valerie at The Downtown Fun Zone 332-6565 for a quote.

Would you like to keep up with any particular subject by having the latest info emailed directly to you on an ongoing basis? Then you are talking about Listserv. The "CataList" list contains over 8,500 mailing lists on all sorts of topics. Depending on your topic, be prepared to get lots of mail. I subscribed to two humor lists and found myself getting 50+ messages a day! There is no charge for being on most of these lists. Check it out at www.lsoft.com (click on CataList to see the lists.)

Seek and ye shall find dept. When you are using a search engine to find pages of interest, there are three tips you should know. Searching on a single word is easy but usually results in too many hits, most of which you don't want. With multiple words, you get even more hits - all pages having any of the words you listed. Use a plus sign before a word to get only pages that have that word. A minus sign can be used to exclude pages that have that word. Phrases should be included in quotes. For example: "apple pie" would return only pages with the phrase "apple pie" on them. +pie +apple would return any page that has both the word pie and the word apple on it. +pie -apple would give all pages with the word pie that did NOT have the word apple on them. Read the tips on your search engine's page for more help.

E.S.A. Sorority held a Desperado Roundup Friday, July 19 and netted $1,516. This money will help St. Jude's Children's Hospital. A jail was set up at the Community Bldg. Where the desperadoes were booked, pictures taken, and served homemade goodies until they were bailed out. A jail-break was initiated by South Coast Satellite during the event but no prisoners escaped.

Joyce Hodge, Mary Ann Puhl and Martha Zwetz were the jailers, Brandy Richardson, photographer, Dotti Myers, Jackie Hines, Pricilla Lang, Darci Sherman, Jean Lewison, and Mary Loan, designated Sheriffs'.

Only 4 desperadoes on the wanted list refused to co-operate and the success for the day was contributed by the following 74 special participants: Doug Jamieson, Bill McMullen, Matt Hines, Bill Foster,

Letter To The Editor

This is to let you know that I have chosen not to seek a second term as Mayor of Port Orford. Many things have lead to this decision.

For the most part I have enjoyed my term and my work with the council and various other agencies. I have especially enjoyed working with Dotti Myers and the entire staff at city hall. They have been extremely helpful to me as I am sure they will be with the next mayor.

Many things have been accomplished during my term and many changes have taken place. I would hope that you, as I do, believe the majority of those changes are for the better.

Best wishes to whoever should choose to run for this office. It is not a "walk in the park". Whoever takes on the job should be calm and patient, have a good sense of humor, nerves of steel and the ability to not take things personally even when the bullets are being directed at you.

I will be available to offer any assistance needed to the next Port Orford mayor.

If you are interested, get those petitions out and get them signed. The deadline is August 28 to have your petitions back to city hall. Best of luck to any and all who run for mayor or council.

Sincerely,

Delaine Kennedy

Senior News

By Mary Yoder

Did you notice July is almost gone? I better tell you what's happened. July 27 was the luncheon. The volunteers were Norma Ellis, Greta Carver, Jane Black, Mary Yoder, June Dennison, Peigi Stahl, Clair Stahl, Jim Galford and what's his name. The program was the Sing A Longs. Hazel Klima and Lee Heyl did a dance - real nice. Judy Peacock-Klein did a Hawaiian number with the Sing A Longs. I don't know who planned the program, but they did a good job.

The rummage sale volunteers were Henry Kron, Mildred Welch and what's his name. What would we do without our volunteers? The dance - a small crowd - good music - lots of other activities the same night. I must say all had a good time. June Dennison, Lee Heyl and Art Klima took care of the dance, the lunch and all else. Hope they never move away.

Here I go again. I went to the center - there were five men painting on the building: Dutch Heinauer, Jim Galford, Henry Kron, Leo Welsh, E. David Kline. Can you imagine painting that whole building? It's gray with a darker gray trimming. I sure hope it doesn't rain till they get it done. That's volunteers - see what I mean.

Aug. 4 is the birthday party 2pm, Aug. 5 the pinocle club at 7. Then remember Aug. 7 is the board meeting at 1pm, you don't have to be on the board to attend. One more thing dues were due July 1. Did you pay yours?

Here are the birthday people for August: Mary Carboneau (6), Chet Lester (7), Camillia Zimmerman (8), Betty Evans (10), Tony Kucgnski (17), Lynn Boren (17), Everett Oscarson (22) R.E. Young (24) Gorden Duke (26), Connie Griffin (27), Betty Harper (30). That should do it for this time

Round Dance Lessons

The Beachcombers are sponsoring Round Dance lessons on Monday evening, 7 to 9pm, at the Beachcomber's Cove on Nicholson Drive, 2 miles north of Port Orford. Round Dancing is good fun. Learn two-step and waltz steps in couple round dance forms. The teacher/cuer is Denise Harris. This is a beginning class, all are invited.

A computer's attention span is only as long as its extension cord.

A concrete example is very hard to carry around.

A contented man is one who enjoys the scenery along the detour.
