Taking Care of Business

By Evan Kramer

Last week I attended the America's Wild River Coast Business Conference in Gold Beach at the Docia Sweet Hall at the fairgrounds. I've only ridden Curry Public Transit (CPT) one other time but for this conference their morning schedule worked out perfectly, leaving from Port Orford for Gold Beach at 7:40am. The $2 fare easily beat the cost of driving my Ford truck to Gold Beach. Bill Dooley, General Manager of Curry Public Transit, was on board heading to Brookings where CPT has its office in the Chetco Senior Center. Dooley talked about the previous day's free bus ride day, which saw ridership up, on many of the runs. We talked about a shared goal of both of ours, which is service between Coos Bay and Arcata/Eureka. Curry Transit only goes as far south as the border unless there is a charter run. What would be needed is cooperation from the California side to meet CPT buses and then take passengers south to Crescent City and Arcata.

The bus dropped me off a little early so I took a walk around the backside of the Fairgrounds. The 4-H building at the western edge of the Fairgrounds was really a sight and one that made for sore eyes. The building is a wreck. Part of the roof is gone and the inside of the building was a standing lake. Rust spots stained the outside of the building. Later on at the business conference I spoke with Curry County Commissioner Ralph Brown. He felt the building could be salvaged for $185,000 which the county has, but he said the problem is getting someone to do the work. Nevertheless, the building is a disgrace and an insult to the 4-H program.

After all the fun of riding the bus and walking around the fairgrounds I got settled into the business conference for the 9:00am starting time. It began with a talk by keynote speaker Len Blackstone, a marketing consultant from Cottage Grove. Blackstone has 25 years experience as a marketing consultant and is a former police officer and professional photographer. He once pedaled his bicycle 3,000 miles across the country.

Blackstone talked about the tremendous change going on around us and quoted Bruce Barton who said, "when we're through changing we're through." Blackstone asked those in attendance to think about what their marketing plan is. He talked about a Chinese concept called "The Circle of Continuous Improvement." He encouraged people to embrace their fears and denial and do new things – eat new foods, try a new hobby, go somewhere you've never seen before and read a new book.

Blackstone talked about seven winning marketing strategies for businesses including superior service, innovation or creativity, adaptation to customization, lower prices, leadership in high growth markets, the largest market share and a distinctive brand value.

Blackstone emphasized customer care over customer acquisition and long-term customer value over short-term customer profits. He emphasized the importance of getting to know your customers and learning their names.

After Len Blackstone finished his one hour talk the 55 attendees of the conference headed off to visit the exhibitors before breaking into the three conference rooms for a variety of talks from starting or buying a business, to writing a business plan to record keeping and one that intrigued me, "Do you own your business or does your business own you?"

There were 20 resource exhibits at the conference including Chetco, the Gold Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Small Business Development Center at Southwestern Oregon Community College

Garrison Lake Opening By Evan Kramer

The situation is constantly changing at Garrison Lake regarding the breaching and as of Tuesday, March 9, this is where things stand. The lake is approximately 17.5 high according to the City of Port Orford public works department.

A group of local people, led by David A. Bassett, has formed the Garrison Lake Restoration Fund, for the purpose of breaching the lake and maintaining it at manageable level. Bassett and his wife have a home on Garrison Lake Drive. He is a consulting engineer. He and Steve Newcomb, a geologist and principal in EGR & Associates are donating their engineering assistance and supervision pro bono to open the lake correctly. He mentioned other lake front property owners Linda Houck and Ralph Donaldson as contributing financially to this effort.

This group is working on getting an emergency permit, with ongoing maintenance provisions, from Oregon State Parks and Recreation. They are working with Steve Williams; State Parks land use coordinator, to breach the lake. Williams said that as of Tuesday afternoon

State Parks had not issued an emergency permit to Bassett. He said they were still reviewing the proposal and working on the permit. Williams sounded positive about Bassett getting the emergency permit but everybody is being very careful.

Bassett asked me to put something in this article directed towards any vigilantes thinking about opening the lake on their own. He is asking people, "please do not attempt to breach the lake."

Work to breach the lake will begin on Saturday morning, March 13, at approximately 8:00am. Joe Marsh has been hired and will bring out a D-6 cat, which will begin by pushing sand north to the south end of the bluff. The goal of this work is to open the lake the "long way" and connect to what exists of the old outlet channel. The group is opposed to cross-beach breaching and will have the contractor ready to close off the opening if that occurs. The channel will be approximately 10 feet wide with a goal of running water 8 to 12 inches deep. The goal is to get the lake down to an "optimal" level of 14.7 feet after the first two days. During this time the outlet will be monitored continuously.

Garrison Lake was breached under City supervision once in December of last year, once in January of this year and again in February. The first two breaches were what is referred to as "cross beach breaching" and resulted in a rapid draw down in the level of the lake. These openings created a channel for wave action to scour the bluffs at Agate Beach resulting in serious erosion. The City's emergency permit to open the lake expired on February 29 and at that point they walked away from the situation because of the cost of opening the lake and potential damage to archaeological sites.

The Garrison Lake Restoration Fund group is also asking State Parks to "proceed with funding options for a long term solution to relieve the ecological, economic, mental and physical anguish this situation has caused over the last six long years." Now that's a goal worth achieving.

We applaud the efforts of the numerous primarily volunteer organizations that enrich the lives of all of us with events such as the July Jubilee, Summer Arts and Recreation, Camp Fircroft, Homecoming, and many more. The contents of the North Curry Blue Book represent the diversity of our area, ranging from student groups to professional organizations to the radio, television, and newspapers we enjoy. The resources in The Blue Book provide our communities with valuable services ranging from providing basic utilities to allowing us the opportunity to just drop in and enjoy a good book. Where would we be without them?

Each and every organization represented here contributes to the unique environment of the Port Orford/Langlois area. We here at North Curry Families' and Children's Center are happy to provide our communities with this second edition of the North Curry Blue Book. The book was assembled by Matthew "Buzzy" Nielsen with help from the Port Orford News. It was printed by the Downtown Fun Zone. The web sites were created by Jay Stoler. ### Women in Science

The Point Orford Heritage Society is pleased to sponsor a Chautauqua presentation by author and historian Susan Butruille entitled "Written in the Stars: The Story of Women in Science." This free, public program will take place on Tuesday, March 16 at 7:00 pm at the Port Orford Council Chambers.

Susan Butruille uncovers storied of courage, curiosity and perseverance, beginning with En Hedu-Anna, a Babylonian priestess and agriculturist of the third century BCE, and ending with Columbia astronauts Kalparna Chawla and Laurel Clark.

From Agloance of Thessaly, who was labeled a sorceress in the first century, to the better known Hildegard von Bingen, whose understanding of astronomy and physics were hundreds of years ahead of their time, women scientists have been applauded, scorned and ignored throughout history.

Susan Butruille has written three books on women in history. She is also a scriptwriter and co-founder of the Women's Forum of the World Affairs Council, and has traveled extensively overseas.

Ms. Butruille's presentation is made possible by funding from the Oregon Council for the Humanities, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. OCH is dedicated to providing opportunities for life-long learning in communities throughout Oregon.

Letter to the Editor,

Here is a very important piece of information for Port Orford parents and teenagers: Two bills are pending in the House and Senate that, if passed, will have a major impact on your future. S 89 and HR 163 allow the federal government to reinstate the draft. The program could start as early as Spring 2005 — after the presidential election! Please see website: www.vancouver.indymedia.org. The "Universal National Service Act of 2003" will require that "all young persons in the United States, including women, perform a period of military service or a period of civilian service in the furtherance of the national defense and homeland security, and for other purposes." The bills are currently "in committee" You may read the bills in full on <http://thomas.loc.gov/>. For further information contact your elected officials.

With Sincere Appreciation by Viv Williams,

Langlois Library Director

A beautiful Storyteller's Chair has been donated to the Langlois Library in memory of Joe McDermott by the Foster Family. Crafted by William Edgar, who was assisted by his wife Nancy, this chair is constructed of local area woods - Madrone, Beach Wood, Bay Laurel, and Myrtle. We are delighted with this new addition to our Library and are looking forward to using the Storyteller's Chair when the Read-A-Lot Reading Club (otherwise known as the Blanco First and Second Graders) visits monthly.

Our SnuggleTale Storytellers are looking forward to enjoying the use of it also during their many visits to the Langlois Library beginning with our April Fool SnuggleTales on April 1 at 7:00pm.

We invite everyone to view this awesome Storyteller's Chair and listen to some delightful stories read by Elma and Weld Champneys, Dan Ells, and Amanda Kamph. You will enjoy a feast for your eyes when you view our Storyteller's Chair and we will brighten your life with a few chuckles with our stories.

Democratic Senator Ron Wyden filed for reelection to the US Senate on March 5. Wyden is running unopposed in the Democratic primary. Four Republicans are vying for the chance to face off against Wyden in the November election. They are Pavel Goberman, E. Bowerman, Bruce Broussard and Philip Petrie.

Last week's paper had an error in the "Filing Deadline Nears" article. Representative Peter DeFazio (Fourth Congressional District) is running unopposed in the Democratic primary. As of Tuesday afternoon, March 9, no Republican had filed to run for this position.

The Presidential race features four Democratic Party candidates running including Lyndon H. Larouche, Jr., John Edwards, Dennis J. Kucinich, and John F. Kerry. George W. Bush is running unopposed in the Republican primary.

Take a Hike

Enjoying the nice spring weather? Can't wait to get outside and garden or take a hike. One of Port Orford's many gems for outdoor hiking and exploration is Port Orford State Heads Park located atop Coast Guard Hill. There are several trails leading off from the old parking lot (tennis court back in the Coast Guard days). One is the half-mile Headlands Trail offering a spectacular view of the ocean and of Garrison Lake. For people interested in a different view of Garrison Lake than from Agate Beach or their own front yards the end of the Headlands Trail offers it.

(SWOCC), SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives), Oregon Coast Media – KBSC-TV and the Oregon Department of Employment.

KBSC-TV broadcasts on Cable Channel 9 and UHF 49 in Crescent City, Brookings and Gold Beach. I spoke with Mike McKenzie-Bahr, owner of KBSC about bringing his station to Port Orford. He has to resolve that with Charter Communications but it was disappointing to see there is a local television station and it isn't available in the north part of the county. Port Orford has three over the air stations rebroadcast from an antenna on Coast Guard Hill and Bahr was asked to include his station.

The NCC Radio Group was also an exhibitor. They have several area radio stations including KPOD 97FM and KCRE 94. Their broadcast area covers the area between Gold Beach and Eureka. I spoke with the company's representative about Port Orford and if they can increase the power on some of the stations so we will be able to receive them in Port Orford.

The Gold Beach Chamber of Commerce and SCORE (Service Core of Retired Executives) sponsored this conference and they provided an excellent forum for the many small business owners in Curry and Del Norte County.

Williams Appointed to CHF

Mark Williams, administrator of Curry Good Samaritan Center, Jerstad Manor and Hillside Manor in Brookings, has been appointed to the board of directors of the Curry Health Foundation.

Curry Health Foundation is a non-profit charitable group, formed in the mid-1990s. Its goal is to enhance the current level of healthcare for all residents of Curry County and to safeguard quality healthcare for future generations, according to Leone Sharp, foundation board member and office administrator.

"The board is happy to welcome Mr. Williams aboard to assist in the decisions and efforts that will help meet the foundation goals," says Sharp.

Williams and his wife, Judy, moved to Brookings a year ago. Previously, Williams was a healthcare and senior living services administrator in Minnesota and Montana. He is a retired U.S. Navy supply corp. officer, a Rotarian, and a member of the Brookings-Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

Anyone interested in learning more about the foundation, or in making a donation in support of healthcare in the county, can mail contributions to the Curry Health Foundation, Box 1274, Gold Beach, OR 97444; phone (541) 247-3189, or email chdfoundation@gb.wave.net.
