Goodbye Greyhound!

Greyhound Drops Port Orford By Evan Kramer

Greyhound Bus Lines has issued a service advisory on their web site announcing major changes in Oregon service. Many cities will lose long distance bus service effective August 18 including Port Orford. Currently Greyhound offers two busses a day from Port Orford—one southbound to San Francisco at 5:00am and one northbound to Portland at 12:50am. The bus station in Port Orford is at the Circle K store. Greyhound had discontinued their daytime buses that stopped in Port Orford last October.

Port Orford joins 35 other Oregon cities in having their Greyhound service discontinued. The biggest loser is the Oregon coast where there will be no more service. Towns from Brookings to Lincoln City are losing their bus service. But on their web site, Greyhound has thoughtfully provided a list of the “closest operating stations” for the public’s convenience. The closest operation station for Port Orford will be Grants Pass, 165 miles away. However, there is no public transportation to Grants Pass. The Highway 97 corridor is also being abandoned as Greyhound pulls out of Warm Springs, Bend, Redmond, Chemult, and Klamath Falls. The company is also pulling back from Interstate 5 cities like Albany, Ashland, and Cottage Grove. A report on National Public Radio on Monday night said the cutbacks were caused by financial considerations.

The only public transportation left in Curry County after August 18 will be Curry Public Transit. They offer much appreciated bus service from Brookings to North Bend six days a week. The fare is $2.00 per segment so a trip to Coos Bay from Port Orford is $4.00 ($8.00 round trip.) Curry Transit sells a monthly pass for $45 with unlimited rides, which is a deal hard to beat. You can call Curry Transit for more information at 1-800-921-2871.

There is only one way by public transit to get to Eugene. From Eugene you can get to the rest of the United States by bus, train or plane. There is an independent bus company in Coos Bay called Porter Stage Lines that operates out of a station on the ground floor of the Tioga Building in downtown Coos Bay. Porter Stage Lines offers buses from Coos Bay to Eugene at 7:00am and 1:05pm Monday through Friday and at 1:05pm only on Saturday and Sunday.

Bud at Porter Stage Lines told me the fare for the bus to Eugene Monday through Thursday is $22.00 and Friday through Sunday $24.00. The 7:00am bus continues on from Eugene to Sisters, Bend, Burns, Vale and terminates in Ontario on the Idaho border.

The Porter Stage Bus will drop you off at either the Amtrak or Greyhound Bus Stations in downtown Eugene. Once you get to the Amtrak station you can take the Coast Starlight north to Portland and Seattle or south to Oakland/San Francisco or Los Angeles or the Amtrak Cascade trains north. Contact Porter Stage at (541) 269-7183 for current fares and schedules.

Another, and more expensive, alternative to traveling out of the area is flying out of North Bend Airport. Horizon Airline operates four flights a day out of North Bend to Portland. Curry Public Transit goes to North Bend Airport before it makes the return trip south.

A customer service representative with Greyhound said the discontinued stations would lead to more streamlined service. She said the company was reducing service where passenger travel is not very heavy. According to the company’s web site Greyhound operates more than 2,400 buses with 112 company owned stations and 1,500 "agency operated terminals and sales agencies." As of July 12 the company serves close to 2,500 locations in the United States. Greyhound took over Continental Trailways Bus Company in 1987 and operates the only nationwide bus system. Greyhound began business in 1914 in Hibbing, Minnesota and was called the Mesaba Transportation Company. Greyhound is currently owned by Laidlaw Inc.

The public can contact Greyhound Lines, Inc. at PO Box 660362, Dallas, Texas 75266-0362 about this discontinuation of vital transportation service. You can also contact U. S. Representative Peter DeFazio at his Coos Bay office. The address there is Peter DeFazio, 125 Central, Room 350, Coos Bay, Oregon 97420, phone 541-269-2609 or e-mail ron.kreskey@mail.house.gov.

Women's Time Out

Ladies of all ages are invited to a Wednesday Women's Time Out buffet brunch and program (with door prizes) on Wednesday, August 4 at 10:00am. at a very special location: Bandon Dunes, 57744 Round Lake Dr., Bandon.

Cost is $14.00 per person, inclusive. Advance, prepaid reservations required by Monday, July 26. Make checks payable to CWC and mail to Maybelle Groff, Box 457, Port Orford, OR 97465. Please print names of each person in party and names and ages of pre-school children who will need complimentary childcare. Please provide a snack for each child. Call Anna at 347-4024 for location of nursery.

The program will feature Jenny Miller of Hermiston, Oregon, a teacher whose avocation is preserving the Oregon Trail - she is affectionately known as a "rut nut". Dressed for the "Trail", Jenny will share her passion for this important period in Oregon history.

Speaker and Music Guest, Patty Curl is from Ponca City, Oklahoma. Patty speaks regularly at schools on alcohol and drug abuse. Patty uses side-splitting humor and warm inspiring stories as she tells how she discovered her value in an approval oriented world.

This program is sponsored by Stonecroft Ministries and Bandon/Port Orford Christian Women's Club.

New Chamber Board Member

The Port Orford Chamber of Commerce Board elected Ed McQuade to fill a vacancy on the board at their Monday meeting. McQuade is a SCORE business counselor and an active participant in the annual business conference in Gold Beach. The Chamber has one more vacancy to fill.

Red Hatters are Winners by the Countess of Scribe

We were sooooo enthusiastic at the 4th of July Jubilee Parade that the judges couldn't help but give us a blue ribbon for our float! You go gals! The Divine Order of the Red Hat Sisterhood of Port Orford shined as we were driven down Highway 101 (by that handsome driver/flatted owner Mr. Jarboe!) throwing out bits of candy and having our Queen Mum (Micki Snider) sit atop a beautifully decorated throne (o.k., it was a discarded toilet!), waving a paper mache scepter. We were all the rage in our various red hats and purple outfits and the crowds cheered. Much thanks to all the "sisters" who helped put this float together, to the Jarboe's for the use of the truck and hay bales, to our divine Carol Mahre for teaching us how to make flowers out of paper napkins, and to the judges who recognized royalty when they saw it!

Immediately after the 4th of July fun plans were underway for a trip to Coos Bay, to the On Broadway Theater, to see "Messaguh Nuns." I'll report next time how this went, but I know everyone LOVED the show. We're also looking for someone to help us get plans together for a dinner at HoneyBear Lodge. It's in Ophir and I know they'd love to experience us there, amid all the music and dancing and wunderbar German food. Someone just needs to call to make reservations and then let yours truly know when and I'll give it some publicity (call me at 332-0557). Sounds easy!

Also on the docket is for the local Red Hatters to attend a celebration in Gold Beach. This is to be a picnic/fundraiser for the Endowment Fund and the date of this event is August 22 (which happens to be this Countesses birthday!) to be held at the Old Miners Fort in Gold Beach. The price is just $25 per person and they have a wonderful menu planned. There will also be hay rides, fiddle music, dancing and just lots of food and fun, which the Red Hat ladies seems to enjoy. We'll be joined by the Red Hatters of Gold Beach, so it should be a great deal of good old fashioned fun. Let Queen Mum Micki know if you're interested in attending.

The next Koffe Klatch get-together will be at our home base, Casa Java (inside Paula's Bistro) on July 15 from 9-11am.

Be there or Be Square! Lots of up-coming events to sort out and we can't do it alone. Queen Mum is always looking for more fun ways that we can get together and enjoy stuff, so stop by the Casa and put in your two or three cents.

Recently I spoke to someone who I thought would be perfect for the Red Hat group and she replied that she just didn't want to belong to another "group." She was "grouped out." I let her know that the beauty of this "group" is that it's not a group at all, but rather ladies who have reached the age of consent, past it and done their thing for every organization under the sun. Now it was just time to get together, dress comfortably and do fun things, just for US. Now that's a "group" any woman over 50 would LOVE to "join," don'tcha think?? Come on in, the water's fine. 'ta'ta for now.

Children's Fun Day

The third annual Children's Free Fun Day is coming soon. It will be held on Saturday, August 14, from 11:00am to 2:00pm at the Port Orford Christian Center at Tenth and Washington Streets. Join in the free food, fun and school supplies.

For those who would like to donate toward this, cans will be in various locations in town. Boxes for supplies are located at Chetco and God's Green Earth (551 Nineteenth St.).

Letter to the Editor,

Setting the Record Straight

Presidential Candidate, John Kerry's public appearances and political ads have indeed demonstrated that he honorably served this nation with meritorious conduct as an American serviceman in Vietnam, as Mr. Chilton noted last week in his reply to my recent Letter to the Editors, "Setting the Record Straight." But is the matter worth discussion, as suggested by Mr. Chilton in his letter? Of course it is.

To have been in combat is to understand the meaning of valor or meritorious service. It is also to understand that an officer's responsibilities may include being an infantryman, a radio operator, or perhaps a pilot, to call in the coordinates for aerial and artillery bombardment, also bearing responsibility for personnel under that command, in addition to carrying out a strategy for battle. And in that tradition, John Kerry risked his life for personnel under his command.

Would you prefer to have a president such as George Bush Jr., who repeatedly lies to America about the connection between Osama Bin Laden and Sadaam Hussein, about weapons of mass destruction in Iraq, who continues to deplete America's economic resources, inflame Muslim hatred and endanger the rest of the world, severing important traditional European ties, while needlessly endangering American soldiers? And there it is. There's the choice: Bush a reckless liar or Kerry? Indeed it is a matter for discussion as Mr. Chilton asked me in his last week's letter to the editor.

As for Mr. Chilton's assertion that former President Clinton was a draft dodger, that is patently untrue. How absurd. Mr. Clinton received a legal college deferment from military service as a Rhodes scholar and absolutely no deferments from the draft were issued to college students during the Vietnam conflict or any war simply because they attended foreign universities such as Cambridge or Oxford in England, as Mr. Clinton. And although the system of college deferments is too lengthy to discuss in this forum, this system was standard operating procedure until the draft was ended. But I find it interesting that Mr. Chilton seems to consider former President Bill Clinton's legal deferment from military service more offensive than the fact that President George Bush Jr. was absent without leave for thirty days from his military duty station during the Vietnam conflict, just one day shy of being possibly considered a deserter.

However the scope of this upcoming election is far greater than this simple sparring. Every program from social security, to Medicare, to unemployment benefits, to food banks and educational programs for our children, assistance for the elderly, the disabled, the unemployed and the single parents of children in Curry County, but in every county in this nation, stand at risk under the present presidential administration. The environment is at grave risk. Veteran's benefits and programs are being slashed and medical facilities are being closed. The jobless rate is down but only for two bad reasons. One is the war. The other is the way that the government counts the number of unemployed. That number is derived from the number of people receiving unemployment benefits, but after their benefits run out they are no longer counted. That number is in the millions. Yet corporate welfare goes on and on.

I trust John Kerry because in my book he's a soldier's hero. He did his job and he came home. But he also did something remarkable as a combat veteran. He finished four years of college, law school and has served his state and this nation for thirty five years since Vietnam. But he shouldn't be pumped up as being any more than he is. He's just one man trying to make a difference. But should there be a mandatory criteria of prior military service in order for an individual to become an elected president, as Mr. Chilton asked in me in his letter last week? Of course not.

It is time for those on the fence to stand down, to switch horses and get on the right track. America is a great nation. It deserves better than George Bush Jr. We have the right to run our government, not to be run by it. We have the right to clean air, water, to health care, jobs, education, the revitalization of urban residential areas, infrastructures and businesses and a lock-down on the use and the development of all wilderness areas. I know that George Bush does not support any of these. He wants to go to Mars and to war. What a coincidence. But John Kerry is striving for a good number of these goals, so he gets my vote That's just; setting the record straight.

Thank-you

John A. Roorbach

Flute Class Extended...

Due to the overwhelming response to the Port Orford Arts Council's, Native American Flute class for beginners, a second class will be given July 27-30, from 6-8pm, at the Art's Council office, 913 Oregon Street, Port Orford. The cost is $20 for adults, which includes a flute, and children admitted free. We have limited enrollment, so if you were "thinking" of taking the class, or could not register for the first one, here is another opportunity. For more information, please call 332-1515, or 332-0487.

Langlois Library News By Buzzy Nielsen, Director

Are you feeling lucky this summer? If you are, drop by and enter the raffle for (or gaze in awe at) a beautiful quilt made by many talented local quilters. These quilters generously donated their time and skill to the Friends of the Port Orford Library to make this marvelous quilt. All proceeds from the raffle go to build a new Port Orford Public Library. Tickets are $1.00 each or six for $5.00.

We're calling all grownups for an extra-special July installment of Snuggle Tales. Yes, that's right, I did say grownups. Join Mrs. & Mr. C (Elma & Weld Champneys) and the library staff as they read "children's" stories that adults will love, probably even more than the kids will! We know that you still love to be read to, and here's your chance! This evening of high-minded silliness will be held on Thursday, July 15, 6:30pm, at the Library.

On Wednesday, July 24, 1:00-4:00pm, kids (or spirited adults!) can join Nancy and David Angelesco as we build a forest right here in the Library, complete with feathered and furry friends. Help Nancy and David turn our Young Adult Room into a veritable wilderness of newspaper trees and animals. Although there is no charge, please call to register, 348-2066.

We'd like to hear how we're doing! If you have any comments on how we can improve the library and our services, we'd love to hear them. We have a new comments/suggestions box just waiting to get used. Don't be shy!

Letter to the Editor,

Most Port Orford residents, like me, feel the police are there to protect them from serious crime and, failing that, to apprehend and charge the guilty. However, according to one officer, he is only there "to take reports". He also told me that in a domestic dispute, he would not arrest me (even if I had not a mark) if my wife was lying on the ground bleeding with a broken nose and a friend told him "she took a swing at me".

This rude awakening came after the recent July 4th festivities, when my adult son says he was struck suddenly, while on bicycle near his younger brother, by a larger and heavier teenage minor. The blow broke his nose and knocked him into the Northbound lane of Hwy. 101. My younger son says the alleged assailant ran from him and threatened him.

When my wife and I arrived on the scene, the police chief left and never spoke with us that night. No photo was even taken of my son's injuries at the scene. An officer on the scene prior to the incident to unlock a car did not pursue the alleged assailant after my son told him he had run away.

Surprised that the officer's version of the incident was so dramatically different from the one I'd heard, I soon learned he had only spoken with my semiconscious son and had not even interviewed his brother, who was there. He only did so after I insisted, and I noticed him turn his head several times and wave his hand in front of my son—as if he didn't want to hear what he was saying.

Finally, the officer refused repeated requests to press charges—which do not require detention of the suspect and can be done by citation—because the individual in question was a minor.

In closing, anyone feeling we need a new direction in responding to violent crime and its investigation should contact our Police Chief, City Administrator and city council. An upcoming police levy might also be a good opportunity to vote on the issue!

Meanwhile, no one has stepped up to the plate and offered to help with thousands of dollars of medical expenses we're facing. EMS did give my son water and ice—but that cost $150.

Let the Crafts Begin

Making arts and crafts has always been an important signature of a cultured society. In Port Orford, a bastion of the craft world, there are a lot of people who want to work on their crafts but have neither the time, space or encouragement.

You are invited to come to our bi-weekly craft nights held at Zion Lutheran beginning in August. There are no charges or dues. The first meeting will be August 6 at 7:00pm and will continue every other Friday unless there is more interest in holding these activities some other night. Quilters, scrapbookers, AB artists, rubber stampers, and all others are welcome to come, share, and learn. Bring your supplies and, as we get going, there will be supplies and ideas to share. For an interesting and potentially fun time to craft and meet new people, and for directions do call Cairehn McGowan at 332-0137.

Wilderness Week

The Friends of Elk River sponsor the fourth annual Wilderness Week starting with events this Saturday, July 17. The Friends of Elk River are inviting the public to get acquainted with the Wild and Scenic Elk River and the proposed Copper Salmon Wilderness.

Saturday, July 17 join naturalists and bird identification experts for a 3-hour dawn field trip to observe forest birds and to survey for the endangered marbled murrelets – elusive seabirds that nest in old-growth trees. There is no hiking necessary but you have to rendezvous at 4:30am sharp at the Elk River Salmon Hatchery parking lot. From there the group will carpool one half hour to the mouth of Panther Creek. Contact Jim Rogers for more information at 332-2555 and leave a message with your name/number and he'll return your call. Space is limited and dogs are not permitted.

The second event on Saturday July 17 is a campout and campfire gathering at Cape Blanco State Park. This will give people an opportunity to meet naturalists, historians and wilderness enthusiasts at Cape Blanco State Park early Saturday evening for a campfire gathering and campout before Sunday's hike. Pre-registration is required and space is limited. Contact Jim Rogers at 332-2555 and leave your name/number and he'll return your call. Tent and self-contained RV spaces are provided. No dogs are permitted.

On Sunday, July 18 take part in a hike into the proposed Copper Salmon Wilderness on a trail once used by Native Americans. From the top of Barklow Mountain experience panoramic views of the Copper Salmon Area, Grassy Knob Wilderness and the Pacific Ocean. This is a moderate hike totaling 3.5 miles with a 1000-foot elevation gain. Contact Jim Rogers at 332-2555 about this hike. The group will meet at 8:00am at the Elk River Salmon Hatchery parking lot and carpool to the trailhead. Pre-registration is required, children are welcome but dogs are not permitted.

Tseriadun History By Scott Byrarn

Tseriadun was a unique Native village on the Oregon coast. Located near a coastal headland, offshore islands and reefs, and a coastal lake that was once an estuary, the village had access to a tremendous variety of resources from the sea and the land. The name Tseriadun comes from the large rocky headland (the Port Orford Heads) that offered protected waters for ocean canoeing during much of the year. From their homes by the coast, it was only a short hike to mountain hunting camps, and fishing sites along Kusuma (the Elk River), one of the most productive salmon streams on the Oregon coast today.

The people of Tseriadun were wealthy in many ways. They lived in finely made houses built of cedar planks, with smooth clay floors. Like others in southwest Oregon, they made fine stone tools, and they were known for their sea hunting skills. They were expert canoeists, fishers and hunters, and skilled artisans. They used hundreds of native plants for food, medicine, and a variety of other technologies.

The Tseriadun people spoke an Athapaskan dialect, reflecting strong ties to the Tututni and Totowa to the south and the Coquille to the north and east. They often traveled to distant villages for celebrations, trade, gaming and athletic events, and to visit relatives. Storytelling was more than a pastime; it was a way to pass on history and cultural tradition. Women usually married into Tseriadun from other communities at the Rogue or Coquille rivers and beyond, and it was not uncommon for several different dialects to be spoken in one village.

Archaeological evidence shows that the native people lived at Tseriadun for over 5,000 years, and possibly more than 10,000 years. Most of the food remains at archaeological sites in Port Orford are of marine origin, including the bones of whales, sea lions, seals, sea otter, rockfish, salmon, and shellfish, especially mussels.

In 1856 the Tseriadun people were forcibly removed from their homelands by the U.S. military, and relocated at the Coast Reservation (later called Siletz Reservation). Many of their de-

We Want You! Concert

Please put July 17 on your calendar for a Library building fundraiser. For $10 at the door you get an evening of music and entertainment hosted by "The Librarians," the infamous vocal and comedy group consisting of Julie Hawthorne, Corrie Gant and Crystal Landucci. They have the pleasure of presenting "The Langlois Mt. Scottish Fiddlers," Port Orford's own "Music Knights," and the toe-tapping original music of long time resident, Michael Disbrow. Help make our new library a reality by attending. Don't miss the "We Want You Concert" Saturday, July 17, 7:30p.m. at the Community Building.

Naming the New State Park

The new state park by Garrison Lake in Port Orford has not received a name yet, but several names are being considered, including Garrison Lake State Park, Agate Beach State Park and Tseriadun State Park. (There is already an Agate Beach State Park on the Oregon coast.)

Currently there are few state parks on the southern Oregon coast with names that come from traditional Indian place names. A Port Orford traditional Native place name is Tseriadun (seh ree AH dun), which refers to the "rocky headland place" known as Port Orford Heads.

If you would like to see the name Tseriadun given to the new state park at Port Orford please make a recommendation to the Oregon Parks and Recreation Division. Letters to OPRD should be addressed to the director, Michael Carrier. Addresses are listed below.
