Happy New Year

By Evan Kramer

Did you stop to think this New Year's Eve that has now been five years since the Millennium New Year's of 2000? We all sat up that night, many of us with drink in hand, waiting for the terrible things that would happen once the computers stopped functioning. As we all know it was a scare that never materialized and 2001 came in peacefully and without society grinding to a halt. What's really kind of shocking about New Year's 2000 is that it is now five years in the past and the feeling that time is exploding on us grows more intense not just for me but for everyone I speak with. Many of us are trying to figure out how to slow time down and cope better with the feeling that time is going faster every year. If anyone out there reading this has any thoughts on the subject please send me a letter or e-mail or call.

Last week our cover story was on the first day of operation of the wastewater ocean outfall at Agate Beach. To get to the point the City arrived at on Thursday, December 23, took nearly seven years. It took much less time for this country to enter and win World War II and start to rebuild Europe. El Nino winter storms in December of 1997 started eroding the then sewer outfall leach field just north of Agate Beach. The leach field had been built in dunes adjacent to Garrison Lake and lasted only three years. The most important element in the leach field effluent disposal system was the wastewater siphon vault, which became exposed during the pounding storms and finally slid into the surf on Saturday afternoon, February 6, 1998. Treated wastewater had been pumped from the sewer treatment plant in a pipe under Garrison Lake to the siphon vault. From there the wastewater was distributed to the leach field via a system of four main pipes, some of which later became exposed and destroyed by the storms.

From February 6, 1998 to 10:00am on Thursday, December 23, 2004 treated wastewater was discharged on the beach. First it came out of crude broken pipes but later the city worked on it and it looked more like a fountain effect. Jerry McNurlin was city public works director back then and worked with Ruben Kretzschmar with the Department of Environmental Quality on resolving the problem. Other people at the February 8, 1998 meeting to discuss the problem were Curry County Planning Director Chuck Nordstrom who left that job but is now the Port Orford Planning Director and Cary Sutter from State Parks who later left that job and was replaced by Frank Eckley. Kretzschmar told McNurlin at that meeting DEQ would issue the city an order allowing them to discharge treated wastewater into the ocean on an emergency basis. At that time the two options discussed were an ocean outfall and a wetland wastewater treatment system but ruled out was allowing discharge into Garrison Lake.

One of the curiosities about the situation is the siphon vault disappeared into the surf and has not been found. Some day in the distant future it will be rediscovered and people will wonder what it was. One of the Port Orford City Councilors at the time this was happening was Robert Warring. At this point in his life he wasn't driving so I often picked him up at the basket studio/home he and his wife Ellen lived in and we drove down to Agate Beach RV Park (now Tseriadun State Recreation Site. We watched as the El Nino storms not only destroyed the wastewater leach field but the dunes protecting Garrison Lake from the ocean and the destruction of the Garrison Lake outlet. Warring and I walked that stretch

Monkeys Shine!
By Paula Cracas

Have you seen the yellow bumper stickers that say "Just Another Love Monkey for Peace?" Have you wondered what in the world that is about? Hey, hey we're the Love Monkeys! We are dedicated to the 5 P's: Peace, Potlucks, Pick up litter, march in the Parade, and have Phun. The Love Monkeys for Peace is a loose-knit group that began when local resident Mark Lankton bought a gorilla suit on the Internet and wore it in the 4th of July parade, carrying a sign that said "Just another LOVE MONKEY for PEACE." So the Love Monkeys for Peace was born and at that time Mark became the official second banana. The top banana? The gorilla, of course.

Then Mark decided to do something else to keep the idea of peace visible. He contacted the Oregon State Highway Department to clean a two-mile section of Highway 101 that runs along the coast. In November, Mark stuffed his gorilla suit with Styrofoam and set it up on the highway shoulder in a lawn chair with his sign that says, "just another love monkey for peace." On a sunny Sunday, about twelve Love Monkeys swung into action and gathered twelve big bags of trash, plus a hot tub top, an electric heater, a tent, a number of articles of clothes, and a typewriter. Soon there will be a sign saying that the Love Monkeys for Peace maintain that section of Highway 101.

Our December project found sixteen Love Monkeys gathered at Mark's for a potluck and an afternoon of creating Jizos for Peace. A potluck followed.

To commemorate the atomic bombing sixty years ago of Nagasaki and Hiroshima, Japan where 270,000 people were killed, Jan Chosen Bays, American Zen master at The Great Vow Zen Monastery in Clatskanie, Oregon plans to present 270,000 hand-drawn Jizos in August of this year in Nagasaki. She has almost 109,000 to date. If you are interested in creating a Jizo, go to www.jizosforpeace.org where directions and information are available. The Love Monkeys created 322 Jizos and sent them on to Jan Bays.

Our swinging Monkeys' group is tossing around a couple ideas for our January meeting. We want to branch out to another peace project and, of course, have a pun potluck. There's always room for more Monkeys in our bunch so grab a banana and join us.

Elvis Turns 70

Millions of fans of Elvis Presley over the world will observe and celebrate his seventieth birthday on Saturday January 8. Presley was born on January 8, 1935 in East Tupelo, Mississippi and died at his beloved home, Graceland, in Memphis, Tennessee on August 16, 1977. This was the home he bought for his mother Gladys and father Vernon. Graceland is now one of the most popular tourist attractions in America drawing people from all over the world including Port Orford.

The memory of Elvis is kept alive in many ways. His 30 plus movies are now being released on DVD. Collections of his music continue to be released by RCA including material never before available.

Satellite radio is a place Elvis has found a home on, as the Sirius Satellite Radio network has an all Elvis all the time station as one of its offerings. XM Satellite Radio is host to the "Pink and Black Days" hosted by Alex Ward. His show originates from Memphis and through he showcases many sides of rhythm and blues and rock and roll music he always makes sure to pay homage to the King of Rock and Roll, Elvis Presley. Ward's show is a must for fans of Sam Phillip's Sun Records where Elvis began his recording career. Alex Ward's e-mail address is Alexward@Elvis.com.

The Elvis Shrine at the Downtown Fun Zone will be on display through this weekend in celebration of his life and music.

"An Irish Blessing" for Blane

May the roads rise up to meet you;
 May the wind be always at your back;
 May the sun shine lightly on your face;
 May the rain fall softly, softly on your fields;

And until we meet again
 May the Lord hold you
 In the palm of his hand.

May the days be filled with gladness;
 May the years forget to touch your brow;
 May joy of friendships be remembered;
 May the saints sing loudly, loudly of your deeds;

And until we meet again
 May the Lord hold you
 In the palm of his hand.

Rainie Day

Written by Dorothy Rafferty November 6, 2004

Here I sit on this rainie day in Port Orford, Oregon wishing it would Go away. Unlike some other people
That are hoping it will stay.
For what ever the reason, where it
Could be there winter wheat or hay. It
May be needed in some other places,
Where it may be hot and dry and could

Be in danger of fire.
But the good lord, knows better than I
Where it is needed, and so don't despair
You will get some of it to, when, he Thinks the time is right, for there has
Been a dry spell when it was raining
Some place else.

Letter to the Editor,

I think it's a sad situation that only the people on Highway 101 received recognition for their Christmas decorations. After all, not everyone lives on Highway 101. Anyone driving the Loop Road (old Highway 101) had to admire the Keeler residence. I know I did as I drive by there twice every evening from Hensley Hill to Arizona Street. It was beautifully decorated and brilliantly lit. Thanks Tom and Carol and family.

The Law of Thought

By Reverend Grace Lee Bonnell

Our thoughts and words are things. This is an ancient truth that is being proved more scientifically within the last ten to fifteen years in the study of 'Vibration.' The studies have included the use in the medical field to effect our physical health, how water crystals and other liquids can be altered by concentrated thoughts. They have even measured how long it takes the vibration of a scream or a simple sneeze to travel from one point to another thousands of miles away. The study of vibration has created an amazing awareness in truly how powerful our thoughts are. It also should prove to us that we, through our thoughts change things and situations. The BIG question then becomes; what kind of world do we desire?

When we think of a word, we realize that preceding that word was a thought. The entire Plan of Creation is predicated upon

Thought. It is through our thoughts that certain things are brought into expression or produced or changed. This is the Law of Thought and this law applies today as it always has and always will.

A current researcher, Masaru Emoto, explains the emergence of a new epidemic in our world, which starts in our thoughts. Our thoughts of fear, grief, worry, lack of trust, anger, loneliness, anger, hostility are creating a field of vibration that is destructive to us personally and globally. Other researchers and theologians agree. These destructive vibrations can only change through our individual and collective thoughts and words. The greater power, which will correct these negative vibrations, is Love.

We can correct our negative thoughts with thoughts of Love. Love when there seems like nothing to love or be loved. We find this kind of Love, which we can fill our thoughts with, in our prayers. It matters not if our prayer thoughts are from any particular denomination. The important thing is that we learn to change our negative thoughts to the higher vibration of love, each time those negative thoughts or feelings come into our heart and mind.

Correcting the vibrations of our personal world and the global world is urgent. A contemporary teacher some years ago wrote that we could "change your thinking, change your world," this is a valid and useful suggestion. The practice of filling our heart and mind with this kind of Love is urgent today. Let us use the Law of Thought to produce a world filled with the highest vibrations.

of beach many times and he always seemed like one of the more curious and well-thought people on the city council.

The Garrison Lake outlet bears no resemblance to what it looked like prior to the winter of 1997/98. Go down there now and the vegetation is gone, the weir is gone, the little bridge over the outlet creek only a memory, and the age old cliffs that guarded Agate Beach RV Park are now eroded way back from their 1997 appearance.

Council Changes

Back in February 1998 Gary Doran was Mayor of Port Orford. He has served eight active years as Mayor. This month he will be replaced as Mayor by city councilor Jim Auburn at the first city council meeting of the year. Also leaving the city council this month are Emily Francona and Jim Campbell. Milton Finch, co-owner of the Highway 101 Liquor Store and Finch's Custom Jewelry and local attorney Steve Abbott, will replace them. Because Auburn is vacating his seat on the council there has been a vacancy created and Auburn is expected to appoint someone to fill his position (with council consent) at the January 18, 2005 city council meeting. The first two council meetings of this year will be held on the third Tuesday of the month instead of the third Monday because of the Martin Luther King holiday on January 17 and President's Day on February 21.

Letter to the Editor,

I do a lot of writing and during the hectic holidays I bought a series of small ads in this paper. I wanted to share some of the little homilies I've created and posted around my office — lessons for myself, mostly.

Last week, when I finally had time to look at all of the ads, I was horrified to find a spelling error in one of them. After checking to be sure it was my fault and not the paper's, I came up with the following question that we all might ask ourselves just for fun:

If an acquaintance misspells a word in a newspaper ad — I do the following:

- a) Ignore and forget it
- b) Hold it up to ridicule to make myself feel superior
- c) Don't notice — because I'm not that good of a speller
- d) Call or email to point out the error

Eschew hypocrisy and let's all 'keep it real.'
