One Down One to Go By Evan Kramer

The City of Port Orford is enjoying the glow of getting the sewer outfall up and running after nearly seven years but the other half of the problem has yet to be solved. When the wastewater effluence leach field was destroyed during the winter storms of 1997-98 the Garrison Lake outlet creek, weir, foredunes, and parts of the aftdunes were also destroyed. Seven years later the City, County, State, Native American tribes, and other government entities have formed a Garrison Lake Restoration Committee and are working towards a December 2005 goal of coming up with a solution to better controlling the lake levels. Frank Eckley, Oregon State Parks Cape Blanco unit manager, said the committee is looking at the feasibility of running a culvert through the park to ease the lake levels but was quick to add that there are many hurdles to jump including the permitting process.

I took a drive down to the "Twelfth Street boat launch" (as it is officially known) on Tuesday morning to check on the Garrison Lake level. The city has put in a "measuring stick" at the fishing dock that goes up to 17 feet. On Tuesday morning the lake level measured 16' 8" and rising. Frank Eckley said on Monday of this week that Garrison Lake will be breached on Thursday of this week. Late last year they hired local contractor Joe Marsh to open a longer and improved lake outlet channel but winter storms have sanded that channel in. Eckley said Marsh would clean out the outlet channel on Thursday. He expects, because of the higher lake level, that the channel will get a better "head" on it and scour it out and keep running.

Twelfth Street at the boat launch has been barricaded by the City of Port Orford public works crew due to high water. This means to get to the boat launch you'll need to drive down Agate Beach Road and turn right at Twelfth Street. As part of the sewer outfall project Twelfth Street between the boat launch and Agate Beach Road has been paved with asphalt. State Parks has had some of the dead Port Orford Cedars taken down in the State Park lands that adjoin Twelfth Street. Eckley said the part of Twelfth Street (the dip) that is under water is under the jurisdiction of the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife. They will look into solving the flooding problem.

News Before it Happens

We received an e-mail from the city recorder on Friday of last week notifying us of a city council special election set for Wednesday, January 12, 7:00pm. The recorder will swear in newly elected Mayor Jim Auburn and then Auburn will swear in newly elected city councilors Milton Finch and Steve Abbott. Next item on the agenda is the mayor appointing, with council approval, a replacement for his seat on the council. Auburn's council term has two more years on it. Mayor Auburn has said he will select outgoing councilor Jim Campbell to fill the two-year vacancy. Three people submitted letters of interest in the position. A committee had formed to support Jim Campbell for the soon-to-be-vacated council seat and last week they turned in 203 signatures of people both in the city and outside the city who wanted to see Jim Campbell be named to the council seat. This influenced our new mayor, so as of Wednesday night the council will consist of Mayor Auburn and councilors Steve Abbott, Ed Beck, Jim Campbell, Carl Eskelson, Milton Finch, and Jerry Steinhorst. Auburn will assign the six councilmen to various liaison positions including city parks, Port of Port Orford, streets, Chamber of

Langlois Library News

Brrrr! It's cold and wet outside. The holidays are over and I can almost hear quiet murmurs of, "Gee, is winter ever going to be over?" Well, we have a couple of ideas to brighten up these dreary winter days.

Of course, as your local library, we mean to tempt you with a good book to read by the fire or an exciting movie to satisfy your sense of adventure. Ah, but we have something else up our sleeve that just might bring a smile to your face. . . "Beat the Blahs Ice Cream Social" hosted by the Langlois Library Foundation. This event will be held on Thursday, January 27, 6:30-8:00pm at the Langlois Library. Our special guest will be Langlois Postmaster Renne Nason who is retiring at the end of the month. We invite the Langlois community to join us for an ice cream sundae and the opportunity to honor and say goodbye to Renne. We hope to see you then.

February will usher in our annual book sale which will be held on Saturday, February 26, 9:00-4:00pm, at the Langlois Lion's hall on Floras Lake Road. We've been receiving donated books all year, but to make this an exciting sale, we need more books. Please consider taking a moment to weed out your personal library and donate the books to the Langlois Library book sale. Donated books can be dropped off at the library during regular business hours.

We also need volunteers to help us with the following book sale tasks:

- * Move books from the library to the hall on Friday (around 11:00am)
- * Bake cookies for book sale attendees (to be dropped off at library on Friday)
- * Pack up books after the sale
- * Help during the book sale

If you can help in any way on Friday or Saturday, please give the library a call. We can use all the help we can get!

Don't forget Snuggle Tales this month to be held on Thursday, January 20, 6:30pm at the library.

Letter to the Editor,

It is important that people, especially women and children, understand that there is no excuse for abuse. Excuses like drugs, alcohol, pain, broken bones, overwork, and stress are not acceptable. What is acceptable? Anger management classes, sensitivity training classes, and therapy. And it is never too late to learn manners. It is also important to remember that truth is relevant. That facts are relevant. My money's on Mary and Mincer.

Letter to the Editor,

Little wonder that CCEC is paying off most of its obligations. How could it be otherwise since they have burdened Coos-Curry Electric's (CCEC) ratepayers with the highest standby meter fee in Oregon's history ever levied against a co-op of which there are 19 in Oregon.

Our base rate of $33.00 is double the amount when averaged out amongst the Oregon co-ops. It can be compared to a regressive tax. No other co-op has had a meter rate that astronomical.

CCEC bailed themselves out of debt, a debt that was self-inflicted and as such no fault of the co-op members. Yet in the penalty phase where restitution for poor management was the cause, the CCEC ratepayers were made to pay the bill.

Now that they have picked our pocket and at a time of the year when our use of electricity is out of necessity dramatically increased, they announce the fact that their 2005 budget, which spurted to $26,580,083, a 12% rise from 2004, is in splendid shape. So much so that the possibility exists that they are debating whether to return some of the Capital credits to membership.

A co-op is a non-profit organization. As such all profits must be returned to the membership in the form of reduced rates. The standby rate of $33.00 is excessive, working a hardship on co-op members. That figure should be pared back and brought into closer configuration with the 18 other Oregon co-ops.

If CCEC responded by bringing the base rate down that would be an indication of their willingness to ameliorate the plight of many co-op ratepayers who are in dire straits.

Do people who are having difficult times have to prostrate themselves for charity to pay their bills. A co-op is so situated that the ratepayer is its primary focus insofar as doing everything in their power to keep the cost to them at an affordable rate.

Here in Port Orford it is said there is a 25% poverty rate. These people must be reckoned with. The $33.00 base rate is devastating their budget.

Show a little compassion CCEC instead of a calendar give your members a rate break. Now that your creditors have been satisfied its time to rescind the $19.00 increase in the base rate. Fourteen dollars or thereabouts is the going rate in most co-ops.

Since the co-op is a membership organization both member owners and management would like a compatible relationship. We've seen it in the past and with each other's cooperation can recapture it for the future.

Port Orford Peace March by Fonyc Prescott

On January 20, there will be an opportunity to join with others demonstrating their continued commitment to ending the war and occupation in Iraq. This event will take place in conjunction with counter-inauguration events being held all over the country that day, which are meant to show the Bush administration and the rest of the world that thousands of Americans do not support policies based on war and greed, ignorance and arrogance. Here in Port Orford, we will march in the dignified spirit of non-violence which characterized the Civil Rights Movement led by Dr. Martin Luther King, whose holiday is celebrated Jan. 17.

We will meet at the A-frame in Buffington Park at 4:30 pm on Thursday, Jan. 20, marching along Highway 101 to Battle Rock and back. Feel free to join us along the march route if you cannot start at 4:30. Please bring signs with a positive message for peace. There should be a few extra signs for those of you who cannot bring your own. There will be a potluck at the A-frame upon returning. Please bring a dish to share if you can. We will also be taking up a collection for Iraqi war victims and for tsunami relief at the event.

Please join us in supporting our troops by calling for peace now.

Letter to editor,

In response to Lois crum's letter in last weeks Port Orford News.

Lois, You're right! We need to recognize all the homes and neighborhoods that were excellently decorated this past Holiday Season.

It is true, the actual challenge between Port Orford and Gold Beach is for the decoration of Hwy 101. But locally here in Port Orford you can count on the Chamber of Commerce Holiday Lights contest being expanded to include all neighborhoods. Of course there will be additional prizes and we hope everyone participates.

Look for on-going publicity all year long as organizations and individuals come together to help make the Holiday Season as bright as possible all over town.

Thanks again to everyone who made the Season shine. Let's do it again.

Chamber News
 By Jay Stoler

The Chamber of Commerce is ready for a great 2005. We've got an ambitious year of community, business and visitor promotion planned and will be sharing it on a regular basis via this column in the papers and on the Internet. Thanks to your enthusiasm and participation we're taking care of business!

Jim Billings reports that 34 whales were sighted and 141 visitors signed in during Whale Watch Week at Battle Rock Park. Cape Blanco had the best stats in the county with 300 visitors and 111 whales sighted. There were 1856 whales sighted at 28 coastal locations and 16,995 total visitors on the coast for the week. This is an excellent, twice a year promotion done in December and March. Be ready for more visitors this coming March.

A big, final, thank you to all the businesses and residents who decorated with lights for the Holiday Season. Next season we'll expand the local contest to include all the neighborhoods as well as Highway 101.

Come and celebrate with the Chamber at the annual volunteer and business awards dinner on January 22 at the Senior Center, 6:30 p.m. The dinner will feature a choice of Roast Sirloin of Pork or Fresh Seasonal Baked Fish and salad, rice pilaf, green bean casserole, carrot cake and ice cream and complimentary wine. tle hatters left Port Orford in wind and rain. They dined in North Bend amongst giggles and laughter. As they returned to the van the wind died down and the rain dropped to a fine mist. We were able to stroll through the gardens and enjoy ALL of the lights at our leisure. There were no crowds and we were able to park right at the entrance. As soon as we returned to the van and headed to Wal-Mart - the rains returned. As we headed south to Port Orford, the winds greeted us. We returned home to find that it had stormed here the whole time we were gone. All were snug in their homes by 10:30 p.m.

ATVs On Agate Beach

Tim Wood, Director of the Oregon Parks and Recreation Dept. wrote this letter to Port Orford resident Edwin Liszka.

Thank you for taking time to write about your concerns regarding the prohibition of ATVs on Agate Beach.

As you correctly stated, that portion of the Oregon Shore State Recreations Area from Cape Blanco to Port Orford Heads is presently open only to street-legal, licensed motor vehicles. It was so designated when the 1967 Beach Bill was enacted.

The Beach Bill placed Oregon's beaches into one of three categories so far as motor vehicle use on them is concerned: beaches that are open to street-legal, licensed motor vehicles; beaches that are closed to all motor vehicles; and two beaches, contiguous to US Forest Service off-highway riding areas, that are open to both street-legal and OHV or ATV use: Horsfall Beach, north of Coos Bay and Sand Lake, near Tillamook.

Unfortunately, enforcement of the street-legal rule on Oregon's beaches has been minimal in the past, leading to some uncertainty on the part of ATV enthusiasts. Oregon Parks and Recreation Dept.

is providing information to ATV riders and depending on their willingness to comply for the rule to be effective.

The Department does not presently have the authority to issue permits for people to use ATVs on beaches that are open to street-legal, licensed motor vehicles. However, we will be introducing legislation that, if adopted, will enable the Department to issue permits for ATV use on beaches by individuals with disabilities.

Port Orford Library News
By Tobe Porter, Director

We were preparing a fund raising update for the Ford Family Foundation and came upon an amazing fact: Since December 2002, nearly $100,000 has been raised for new Port Orford Library construction through local fund raising activities and events. That includes everything from a donation by a Girl Scout troop to the Burrito Breakfast to Bargain Holiday to individual donations. 374 people, including 194 folks who live outside Port Orford, donated over $60,000. With that much good news, we hereby declare the $300,000 Challenge over. We did not reach that particular goal, but we went over the top in proving that the new library has local support.

We thank everyone who took on the responsibilities of temporary ambassador to the Port Orford Library by sending letters to personal and professional contacts outside the area. We would appreciate knowing who sent "Challenge" letters to the following generous donors: Lucie LaBonte, Joanne Lanz, The Brodbeck's, Jim & Margie Lee and John Krull. Just give us a call so we can personally thank you for the gift of your valuable time.

story readers who will entertain the whole family during "Liberty Pie Story Time" on Thursday, January 13 in City Council Chambers. And don't forget story hour for the even younger set: "Toddler Time" held every Wednesday at 10:30am.

County Receives Grant

Curry County has received a $15,000 grant from the Department of Environmental Quality Solid Waste Program for a compost facility feasibility study. This was the full amount the County requested. DEQ funded 12 of the 24 grant requests it received for solid waste planning and reduction projects.

The Oregon Legislature provided Solid Waste Program grants to local governments in order to encourage and enhance comprehensive local solid waste programs.

The Curry County Recycling Committee next meets on Tuesday, January 31, 3:30pm, in the Commissioner's Hearing Room at the Courthouse Annex in Gold Beach. The committee will discuss the next steps in regards to the compost facility feasibility study grant.
