CCEC Board Closes Door By Evan Kramer

The Coos Curry Electric Board of Directors met in a Saturday session and made it impossible to report further on their monthly meetings.

Late in the public portion of the meeting under the agenda item Policy Review Committee, board Chairman Grant Combs discussed Policy # 76A (attendance of members or others at board meetings). Policy # 76A states that the board meetings are “not subject to Oregon’s public meetings laws and are not open to the public, including members of the press, and public officials. Past practice has been to allow members of the public and press and public officials to attend the public portion of the board meetings which included a section for comments from the public. In fact under former Board Chairman Daryl Robison members were welcomed and encouraged to introduce themselves and make comments up to three minutes in length.

The new policy only allows attendance at a board meeting after a person fills out a request form and submits it to the general manager for approval 10 days in advance of the meeting. The form must include a reason for attending the meeting and if approved the person will be placed on the agenda. The person requesting attendance at the meeting will be notified within 24 hours prior to the board meeting whether the request has been approved or disapproved. Once the agenda item you have requested to speak on is concluded you will be asked to leave the board room.

Board vice-chairman Daryl Robison made a motion to adopt Policy 76A and it passed unanimously. The board then voted unanimously in favor of Policy Bulletin 67 which deletes sections 3B-9 & 10 which ensured that the agenda at each meeting would include a set time for member comments and that members be notified of any regular meetings of the board. It also approved changes to Policy Bulletin 76 striking out the sentence “Board meeting shall be open to members and that a member’s comments period would be included in the agenda.

Editorial opinion: This is a deeply disturbing development. When Robison, John Herzog and Gary Schlottmann won seats on the board in June, 2006 they campaigned on a promise of transparency for the board and its actions. The board just got more opaque than the Sixes River after a heavy rainfall and this new policy is unacceptable. If you agree with me please make your feelings known to the board.

The Coos Curry Electric Cooperative Board does not operate their meetings under the Oregon Revised Statutes Public Meetings Laws but until June 23, 2007, allowed and provided for public and press participation. In contrast, the Port Orford city council operates under the Public Meetings Laws and is required by law to meet in public session. They can meet in (private) executive session only for one of four reasons and they cannot keep the press out. They can only request the press not write a public report on the executive session.

The CCEC Board will replace public attendance and participation at their board meetings with a series of one town hall meeting a month. The first town hall meeting will be held in Brookings on the first Thursday after the July board meeting which is August 2 at the Brookings CCEC office. After that they will rotate between Brookings, Gold Beach, Port Orford and Coquille. There will be three town hall meetings in each district per year. Each will be attended by General Manager Roger Meader and at minimum the director or directors from that district. At these town hall meetings members of the public will be informed at what went on at the board meetings and be able to ask questions. They will be held at 7:00pm and publicized.

General manager Roger Meader discussed the recent annual meetings in Brookings. He said there were many chickens which didn't get eaten. Over 800 people had RSVP'd they would attend the meeting but only a little over 300 showed up. The board ordered food for 800 people. Meader questioned the need for the meal at the annual meeting. The Board did thank Secretary Dian Marple for her efforts in organizing the annual meeting. Next year's meeting will be held somewhere in the Coquille District, probably Bandon.

The earlier part of the meeting included a lengthy report on the Form 7 and other financial information from chief financial officer Doyle Eden. He said the Coop had budgeted $27,787,544 in revenues this year. Eden said revenue was on target and that the operating expenses were less than anticipated. Eden added more good news saying the Coop was $300,000 below on the direct cost of operating the plant which is operating the lines and other physical aspects of the Coop. Eden described the state of the Coop as "very strong".

Interim General Manger/CEO Roger Meader said the health of the Coop was very good and that we would have a positive margin at the end of the year. Meader gave the safety report and said there had been 16 power outages in May including five caused by old age of the equipment and three by trees. Meader spoke of an employee who had recently suffered a mild heart attack at the Coop headquarters. Meader recommended the Coop supply each line truck with an automatic defibrillator and that he wanted one in every office also. He described having them as the difference between life and death.

Vice chairman Daryl Robison reported on the executive search for a new general manager/CEO. He said there have been half a dozen applications for the job including one from Roger Meader. The applications are due in by some time in August.

Letter to the Editor,

After reading Milton Finch's letter to "Stakeholder" in last week's papers, I wanted move out of the city so I could drive in to attend city meetings and give my opinion and become a "Stakeholder." I've taken for granted many of the official meetings that occur in Port Orford - given that I have a low tolerance for bad decisions and boredom. I've made exceptions, of course, as I've never been without an opinion on just about everything. But it is unlikely that I'll give up my adorable little cottage in town. Perhaps the answer is for Milton Finch to remember that freedom of speech and freedom of the press are two of the freedoms our soldiers are fighting for.

Letter to the Editor,

Schools have just closed and children are again on summer vacation, busy exploring their neighborhoods and enjoying time to be with friends and families. The State legislature this year has finally allocated an amount of dollars to cover the true expenses schools encounter. It took a change in the make up of the legislature and a return to basic democratic principles, such as providing for the educational needs of our young people, to get the job done.

We are all in this together whether we have children or not. Education or lack of it affects all aspects of our lives. The more educated the population, the better the services we all receive and the quality of our daily lives. Most people in this part of the county are retired. But because they still care for children, they volunteer in schools and support public education.

We expect public institutions funded through taxes and bonds to provide everybody with basic needs from clean and safe water to the licensing and overseeing of nursing homes. These things are not free and require us all to stay involved, be conscientious of how moneys are allocated, and how priorities are chosen.

Lately Curry County had to make tough decisions when timber moneys became an issue. Our commissioners listened and weighed people's needs before they deliberated. Again, democratic principles in action, listening to those whose lives would be affected before allocating resources. Those decisions were made openly and with transparency.

It is in this manner that we can face the future of our county, our state, and our country. Again, we need to see beyond our personal gains and losses and look at factors that will make us all a stronger more functional community.

The State Democratic Party is setting aside July 28th, for a statewide food drive.

On July 4th we have an opportunity to add to our community. Democrats of Curry County are coming together to support food banks by going out and collecting food to assist those with the most needs. This is only a first step.

We encourage all to join us in these drives.

Sincerely,

Rosario Williams

Library Bid

It was 2:00pm precisely. The window snapped shut, the bids were in, and down the hall in the Council Chambers the people waited anxiously. Will the Port Orford Library receive a good bid this time? Will the new library ever be built?

Quiet descended over the Chambers as contractors and library folks settled down to hear Rich Turi tell it like it is: "I will open each bid, there will be a few moments of silence as I review the paperwork, and then I will read the base bid and the alternates."

As the numbers were sounded, like the slow clang of the one-mile buoy on a calm day, smiles began to appear: $1,740,840 ... $1,697,279 ... $1,688,203 ... $1,567,491. YES!

Architect Turi thanked all the contractors for their interest and for taking time to submit a bid, and then he said, "Folks, we are going to build the new library."

Yes, indeed, we are! Next steps include meetings and an offer and paperwork, then more of the same, until finally, about mid-August, construction of the new Port Orford Public Library will begin.

Fire season is now in effect so there will be no open burning for some time in the city. The exception is burn barrels which you can still burn in until further notice. The City Council has an open discussion about the burn pile at the City Shops so if you have concerns either way please show up to the Public Safety Meeting on July 3, in the City Council Chambers at 5:00pm. Battle Rock Plan Accepted

The Port Orford City Council met on Monday night and began with public hearings regarding Phase II of the refinement plan for the southern part of the city and on the annexation ordinance.

The council made a series of motions starting with Councilor Jim Campbell who made a motion to accept the city planning commission's recommendations for "no zoning recommendations at this time." The planning commission made this recommendation on a motion at their May 29 meeting. Milton Finch seconded the motion and the vote was 3-2 against with John Hewitt, Steve Abbott and Jake Marshall voting no and Campbell and Finch voting yes.

Councilor Hewitt made a motion to accept the special Battle Rock Mixed Use Zone (BMRUZ) (10-MU) and accept the map of the area. The council voted 3-2 in favor with Hewitt, Abbott and Marshall voting yes and Campbell and Finch no.

Finch told the council he wanted to see the planning commission disbanded if the council does the commission's job.

Councilor Steve Abbott made a motion to adopt section 17.12.90 of the BMRUZ with some changes and it passed 3-1 as by then Milton Finch had left the meeting. The vote was Hewitt, Abbott and Marshall yes and Campbell no. This motion makes construction of any new building over 125 feet in length a conditional use and any building taking up more than 6,000 square feet on a lot a conditional use. Section H allows for construction of new buildings up to 45 feet but buildings over 35 feet will have to be by conditional use.

John Hewitt made a motion to adopt Chapter 15 (Sign Code) except that electronic message centers will not be allowed. The motion passed 3-1 with Hewitt, Abbott and Marshall voting yes and Campbell voting no.

The council found something to agree on when they voted 4-0 on a motion by John Hewitt to adopt two changes to the comprehensive plan including Goal # 8 encourage a walking trail that begins at Battle Rock Park and Goal #9 which says the city supports a Nearshore Research Station at the Port.

Fifth Street Closure

Fifth Street access to Battle Rock Park will be closed off at 6:00pm on the evening of July 4 and will not reopen until after the fireworks have concluded.

Letter to the Editor,

In regards to the dictatorship community that is having ordinances passed in the city for the businesses on the south end of town as to the style, color and theme appearance of our buildings, I wish to say in writing I absolutely am not going to comply.

If I want to paint tsunami waves and have John Travolta in his most embarrassing movie moment on my building that's my choice. I own the building! How are you going to enforce this ruling, take revenue from the city by cutting off my water? Or cost the county to have me in jail with three hots and a cot? Just for spite this summer I might climb up on my roof and paint a 15 foot Kilroy in protest.

Why don't you follow Myrtle Point's lead and fix the sidewalks and put in some nice street lamps, or better yet find the water leaks in town and regain 50% or your lost treated water revenue.

Sincerely,

Chris Speed

Dredging Begins in July By Jay Stoler

Dredging will begin on or about July 1, according to Port Manager Gary Anderson, speaking during the regular meeting of the Port Commission on Tuesday, June 19. Gary said that a contract had been awarded to Ickey Marine to remove 35,000 cubic yards of sand from under the hoist area via a clamshell dredge device. The sand will be "redistributed" behind the jetty. This type of dredging has been used successfully in the past.

This was also the final meeting for Commissioner Evan Kramer, who chose not to run again. Kramer will be succeeded by Stanley Johnson, who was elected in May and will begin his four-year term at the next meeting in July.

The Port Commission gave Kramer a plaque to commemorate his four-year term of service. He was elected in 2003 by popular vote in the Special Districts election.

Kramer's term was a unique one, as he is one of the only Commissioners to serve as President for two years in a row, during which he helped engineer a monumental financial turnaround for the Port. Tearing down the old shop and cleaning the land of hazardous toxins, turning it from a liability (DEQ fines) to an asset that has been appraised at $645,000 was a major accomplishment for the Port under Kramer's leadership.

In addition Kramer brought a lot a stability and organization to the Commission at a critical time, and helped the Port transition into a much more smoothly running operation than it was four years ago. He was roundly applauded and thanked by the Commission and audience.

Fire Danger

Large landowners throughout southern Oregon are already feeling the heat in the early stages of the 2007 fire season, especially on the heels of the Woodruff Creek Fire near Allegany this past weekend.

Protective Association spokesman Tom Fields. “A fire that burns this actively under calm weather conditions near the Oregon Coast raises a red flag for the rest of the summer.”

The Woodruff Creek Fire burned about 40 acres of medium slash in a five year old tree plantation. Fields says the main fire spotted and started an additional blaze across a narrow canyon under light wind conditions. “The fuels on the ground are tinder box dry and highly prone to fire starts as well as spreading potential.” Fields adds that fire danger now is equal to that of mid or late July.

Landowners looking to protect their assets are restricting access and closing gates earlier than usual based on fire activity like Woodruff Creek and the abnormally dry conditions. For a list of private land closures, visit the Oregon Department of Forestry website at www.oregon.gov/odf. People wishing to gain access to specific private lands should contact the landowner directly.

Burn permits are required for rural residents outside incorporated cities for all outdoor debris burning, including incinerators and burn piles. Those living inside incorporated cities should contact their local fire department. Additional public use restrictions, such as campfire use, smoking and off-road driving, are just around the corner. To stay current on fire restrictions and forest closures, visit CFPA’s web site at www.coosfpa.net or call the Association’s closure information line at (541) 267-1789.

Letter to the Editor,

So you want to write again. This time you want to inform people who actually live here, who is going to live here by your standards and what their religion will be, by your standards. Does this mean when you say "Attract the RIGHT kind of Residents, Businesses and Tourists" that you are referring to Rich/Poor, Black/White, and etc.etc? What a slap in the face. It's not enough that you want to tell us how we are going to live or what to build and where, but now you want to control those that live here and what their religion will be, as if we are going to become a gated community. I guess filling out forms to meet your criteria would be a start and one big gate at each end of town would also be on your agenda. I just don't see the people of Port Orford allowing this kind of trashing of their town. You know the one you don't live in. You keep referring to the commercial owners on the south end of town that are the ones that have created this mess, well wake up, if the shoe fits it wear it, the only one stirring this up and making a mess of this is you. Get a life, quit trying to control everyone. Apparently you can't even control your own. It's not going to happen here. We don't need a gated community for your personal control. Its no wonder that you live out of town. I guess it's so you can blame everyone else for your mistakes.

The aforementioned response is my personal opinion and is not meant to represent Council sentiment. Transparency, openness and honesty are key essentials to being a more informed citizen.

Milton Finch SR.

Buy a Star and Be a Star!

That's the slogan for the money raising campaign for Port Orford's The Common Good Food Pantry. Circle K in Port Orford has volunteered to sponsor the Buy A Star program. Each star is $1.00. The money raised will go to help pay for food purchased for our needy families in the Port Orford area. Each purchased star will be displayed at Circle K. Go on down and check out the stars, buy one, and become a STAR too. You will be in good company. And, thanks Circle K!

Bear

We will miss you so much. Zeke, Griz, Bogart & Zipper will see you again some day on heaven's beach. Thank you for being the best of all dogs. Don't be scared because Sadie will be there waiting for you. You truly were the Big Bear of the dock.

Til we see you again.

Take care of Sadie

Letter to the Editor,

I believe Mr. Finch makes a common error in logic in his last letter to the editor concerning "Stakeholder": He links time lived in an area and physical location to the validity of ideas, neither of which are connected. It is a wise group that listens to all ideas when grappling with a planning process. Sometimes the person with the "freshest" eyes catches a problem that the more "seasoned" eyes have come to overlook. This is exactly what happened on two occasions involving "first impression" issues during planning processes I was involved with. Once the problem was noted it was obvious a solution was needed, but it was missed by all of us who had much more experience with the site (by coincidence I, too, had 18 years involvement). Listen, listen, listen should be mantra of everyone looking towards the future.

Respectfully,

Mark Lankton

Pictures of the Port

"Pictures of the Port" is the theme for a 4th of July Photography Exhibit to be held at the Community Center from 10am to 2pm. The photographs were taken by participants in an annual photography class led by noted local professional John Heida, and offer some striking and unusual looks at our local Port and its surroundings. The photography classes have been held for the past three years, and several members of this year's class have taken part since the beginning. It's surprising what different perspectives and responses to the same basic theme were produced by this very creative group, which collectively chose the photos to be shown. Members of the class who will be showing their work include Lois Miller, Lynda Foster, Pat Stannard, Ruby Wagner, Roger Rieber, Julie Ells, Anne Redding, Sara Peters, and Steve Taylor. You may look at our port in a whole different way after seeing this exhibition!

Rotary Reaches Goal

The Rotary Club of Port Orford has reached this year's goal to increase its Scholarship Endowment Fund to $100,000! Established fourteen years ago, the Scholarship Endowment Fund will now accumulate interest which will be available next school year, and every school year after that for scholarships for students graduating from the 2CJ School District.

Thanks to the many individuals and businesses in the Port Orford/Langlois communities whose contributions made this permanent Scholarship Endowment possible. The future of our local youth is one of Rotary's top priorities. Rotary will continue to raise funds for scholarships so that, as Rotary President Dick Wold envisions, some day every graduating student can count on assistance with education and training beyond the high school level.

He was the city council liaison for streets and recycling and served on the county recycling committee. Carl had a wry sense of humor which was often needed at the city council meetings. He was an advocate for the people on many issues including water rates.

Carl was 85 years old. He and his wife Marian are long time residents of Port Orford. He owned and operated an auto body shop in Port Orford for several years.
